

Ready for new role

It has been a little over a month since Sue Miller joined the Helensville District Health Trust as its new General Manager, and what a busy time it's been! The Trust Chair, Erica McKenzie and the departing manager, Charm Torrance welcomed Sue with a comprehensive orientation programme to introduce her to all the many Trust's entities, businesses and activities.

Sue says a highlight has been meeting many of the staff, from the Trust itself, to the Helensville Birthing Centre, the Kaipara Medical Centre and the Trust owned community facility, Te Whare Oranga ō Parakai. "The passion and commitment of individuals is to be applauded," she says.

She's also had an introduction to many of the other agencies in South Kaipara and says, "developing long term relationships of trust and mutual respect will take time, but I want to learn more about each of them, so I'm aware of what value they can offer when we're considering new ventures for the Trust."

Alison McKenzie House update

The Helensville District Health Trust has commissioned a Heritage Report on Alison McKenzie House — the pale pink and blue Art Deco building in Commercial Road, that was home to the Health Trust before engineers deemed it unsafe in May. That report will be submitted to the Auckland Council Heritage team, before any further decisions on the building's future can be made.
